National Board Seminars

University of Alabama at Birmingham

NBPT Certification

Pursuing National Board Certification is an exciting professional growth opportunity for K-12 teachers, but the rigor and challenge can prove daunting. The National Board for Professional Teaching Standards states that candidates who receive assistance from established support programs enjoy a 20 to 30 percent greater chance of passing this assessment the first time. The first attempt passing average is approximately 40 percent nationwide.

UAB NBPT Seminars

The purpose of UAB's National Board Certification Seminar program is to prepare candidates for the certification process and to support them as they complete the process. Seminar topics include learning theory, cooperative learning, alternative assessment, time management, National Board Standards analysis, portfolio entries preparation, and videotaping tips. Direct assistance is given in preparing portfolio entries and in preparing for assessment center exercises. The participants benefit from working in small groups with other teachers and an experienced facilitator.

Time & Place

Participants meet at UAB in the Education Building on Saturdays. The group usually meets from 9:00 to 3:30 and takes an hour break for lunch.
